FILES SUIT AGAINST PHOTOPLAY GROUND

Loan Company Asks Foreclosure of Mortgage on Property

The foreclosure of mortgage has been set in common pleas court by the Marion Building, Savings & Loan Co. against George H. Foster, Ed. Sharpless, Bianca Sharpless, R. McMurray, Lulu B. McJannet, J. J. Huebner, as receiver of the Marion Photo-play Co., the Chattel Loan Co. and Ralph J. Foster. The property involved is real estate owned by the Marion Photo-play Co., which was placed in the hands of the receiver several months ago. Personal property, including equipment in the Marion, Grand and Ocean theaters, has been disposed of according to the petition the plan of which there is now due $7,133.77. The loan company asks for a judgment for this amount against Lewis Sharpless, Foster and McMurray. Other defendants who have liens against the property are asked to set up their claims.

The petition states that the property was purchased in 1917 by Lewis, who mortgaged it to the plaintiff. The mortgage was later transferred to the Marion Photo-play Co., a partnership composed of Sharpless, Foster and McMurray.

Attorney W. N. Harder represents the loan company in the suit.

"KONJOLA THE VERY REMEDY I NEEDED!"

Four Bottles Completely Solved Man's Health Troubles—Praises New Medicine Highly

MR. W. A. BUSH

"Konjola is the medicine I should have had long ago," said Mr. W. A. Bush, Austinburg, Ohio. "My stomach was all out of condition. Everything I ate caused pain. I was subject to dizzy spells, and spots appeared before my eyes. I had to get up frequently at night due to bladder actions. I became weak and nervous."

I tried Konjola on the advice of a friend, and am grateful for the tip he gave me. Within a few days I began to notice good effects from this new medicine, and in four weeks I felt like a new man. Gone are the indigestion pains, the dizzy spells and the spots before my eyes. I never have to get up nights any more. Konjola surely worked wonders in my case, and I endorse it highly."

Konjola is sold in Marion, O., at Stump & Sons Pharmacy and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

A Cannes cable tells about a Canadian,

By Hydro-Electric Power.

Announcement is made of the electrification of the entire mileage of the government-owned railroads of Switzerland with a resultant cutting of the cost of operation, to say nothing of the freedom from cinders and smoke achieved, a matter of decided importance to travelers in the mountain regions.

The cost saving has been effected in two ways; through the substitution of hydroelectric power for the operation of locomotives by coal, and in the reduction in the operating labor cost, fewer men being required to operate the electric system than the steam generated by the use of coal. It is pointed out that in 1913, when travel was much lighter than at present, the number of operating employees of the government-owned lines was $386 and they worked from ten to ten and a half hours a day. Now, with traffic very heavy, the same lines, with some extensions, are operated by 3,616 employees, working eight hours a day.

Little Switzerland is particularly fortunate in hydraulic resources. So many are her snow-capped mountains, so many her glaciers and the mountain torrents running therefrom, that experts estimate her hydraulic resources at 20,000,000,000 kilowatt hours, which, if utilized, would average 3,000,000 horsepower. Little wonder that the Swiss government resorted to hydro-electric power to avoid the high prices exacted for coal during and since the World war.

What a simplification of the worries of American railway managements there would be were hydro-electric power available throughout the length and breadth of this land as it is throughout the Alpine valleys of Switzerland!

Their Way Made Easy.

The joint census and reapportionment bill
having been passed, congress is no longer subject to the charge of being in a state of dormancy to the constitution of the United States, but individual members of the two bodies, seemingly with the approval of the entire membership of the bodies, are still guilty of practices, as we took occasion to remark a few days since, which could not possibly have been contemplated at the time of the framing of that great document.

We were reminded of some of these, a day or two ago, by a story from Washington detailing some of the privileges enjoyed by members of the senate and house. The Washington writer held out that "I gotta drag" meant more in the federal capital than anywhere else in the country, and as evidence of his contention dwell at some length
on the immunity from traffic regulations enjoyed by "the favored of officialdom, their friends and their friends' friends." Passing over his recital of the markings of cars used by cabinet officers and their aides and families, army and navy and department bureau chiefs, prominent local citizens and members of the diplomatic corps, he writes:

"Congressman Whooms—senator or house member, as the case may be—fixes above his automobile license tag another tag labeled in large letters 'Congressional' and woe to the conscientious policeman who dares remind the congressman's chauffeur of speed or parking regulations in the face of that conspicuous warning. Policemen have been sent to the sticks for much less than that."

But there are other and far more pronounced ways in which the ways of members of the legislative branch of the government are eased.

Each congressman is allowed $1,000 a year above his $10,000 salary for two secretaries and there is an allowance of $7,000 annually beyond his salary to each senator
for a secretary and two assistant secretaries.
Many members of congress all these positions
by naming their wives, sons or daughters, while the work they are assumed to do is often done by others who receive but a portion of the allowance to the member for clock hire. Each member of the house also has an allowance of $125 for stationery, which also may be utilized profitably to a small degree. Then there is the considerable mileage he is paid, whether or no he covers the mileage in his home at the end of one session and the beginning of the next. He also enjoys the franking privilege, by means of which he can put out speeches he may never have delivered and have them circulated at public expense. Members of congress may also receive free surgical and dental service at the Walter Reed hospital and the army and navy clinics, and recently both houses called on the navy to assign a doctor to the capitol to treat members and their families. Members also enjoy the "freedom of the port" privilege despite the alleged restrictions announced as a result of looting congressional trunks. Army and navy planes are used by members for short vacation trips, and army transports are utilized for trips to the Panama canal, Hawaii and the Philippines by members of congress with their families and friends at a cost to the member of $1.25 a day for each person in his party. We do not pretend to know that such is the case since the transferring of the United States and Merchant Union to private interest, but previous to that time, a senator or congressman desirous of making a trip to Europe could do so by paying the minimum rate on a United States shipping board liner, for which he secured accommodations of maximum class.

Yet it doesn't take a moment's thought to reach the conclusion that none of these privileges is wholly justified, and that the majority of them are wholly unjust and unjustifiable burdens on the taxpayers of the land, abuses which have developed during the passing years and are yearly becoming more and more entrenched against remedial action.

There can be no question but what the ways of our federal legislators have been smoothed and made pleasant by these privileges which they enjoy to the disadvantage of good and economical government.

The forty per cent. contingent fee charged by four legal firms for the recovery of $500-000 given to a church organization, and interest thereon, by a legally incompetent Indian was reduced to $139,252 by a federal court.
What the pale faces have been doing to the reds since all has been discovered in the lands of the aborigines is a caution.

The United States department of commerce
cites the city of Memphis as a typical illustration of the manner in which the cost of running municipalities has advanced, the per capita cost for the year ended December 31, 1927, being $28.97 against a per capita cost of $13.99 in 1927. Yet a lot of people continue to look to the federal government for relief from the high cost of government.

When it is noon on the moon, the lunar
temperature goes as high as 265 degrees Fahrenheit, and when the sunlight disappears
the temperature drops at a rate of over seventy degrees in twenty minutes till it reaches a point 196 degrees below zero. And the worst of it is, there probably isn't either an ice-man or a coal dealer on the entire sphere.

The Fifth Avenue association, of New York City, has inaugurated a campaign to do away with all unsightly hangings and projecting signs hung haphazard in the retail district of the city, holding that they not only are a "menace to life and limb," but also lessen
the "dignity" of the city's shopping center.
Of course, the association is liable to come in for a lot of paragraphic joshing over its "dignity" business, but even at that, its plan
is not without merit.

THE FIRST OFFENDER.

Flat-Foot and Illness.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Anything that interferes with the natural and free use of the feet in walking is bound to cause all manner of disagreeable symptoms. If your foot is thrown out of its natural position, strain is bound to be the result. Such strain is capable of causing pain extending anywhere from the foot itself through the leg and into the back.

Many a person has believed himself to be suffering from rheumatism, or even some sort of kidney or spinal trouble, when these organs and parts are really perfectly normal. He is merely paying the penalty of walking on a foot which has become too weakened in certain parts of its delicate structure to perform its function properly.

Flat-foot is the name given this trouble. It is a displacement of the bones of the foot, which receive the weight of the body when standing or walking. As a result the arch of the foot is depressed or flattened.

There are many causes of this condition. Chief of these are improperly fitted shoes. They may be shoes with excessively high heels, or narrow or short shoes, or shoes which do not give necessary support to highly-arched insteps.

Another cause is the turning of the feet outward in walking. Weakness of muscles and ligaments due to exhausting illness, poor health, old age, rapid growth in a child, overweight, prolonged standing on hard floors, corns and bunions and specific diseases—all these are factors in producing flat-foot.

The first measure to take in the treatment of flat-foot is to get properly adjusted shoes. These should have broad, low heels and ample space for the toes.

Everybody should cultivate correct attitude in standing and walking. The sufferer from flat-foot should throw the weight of the body frequently upon the outer side of the feet while standing. He should walk with the feet held parallel and pointed forward, with the weight on the outer side.

The third thing to do is to practice tip-toe exercises twice daily. The sufferer stands with the toes pointed inward, and slowly raises and lowers himself upon the toes, descending with the weight on the outer side of the heels.

If these measures do not give relief it will be necessary to strap the foot with adhesive plaster or to place it for a time in a cast or to use mechanical appliances. Your doctor or the specialist will advise you regarding such treatment.

Even after the condition has been corrected the person who has once suffered from flat-foot must give close attention to the selection of his shoes
and to the cultivation of a proper attitude in standing and walking. He must do this if he is to avoid a return of the trouble.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

Henry H. Q.—Can anything be done to stop one from grinning?
A.—No.

E. C. Q.—What do you advise for pimples and blackheads?
A.—Correct the diet, by cutting down on sugar,
starches and coffee. Avoid constipation.

Mrs. G. M. Q.—What can be done for a neurasthenic patient—would constipation be a factor in any way?
A.—This condition can be improved by correcting the constipation and by improving the health
in general.

T. W. Q.—What is the cause of ringing in the ears?
A.—This is often due to nasal catarrh which has extended into the inner ear. This can be cured with proper treatment. A nose and throat spray is beneficial.

Miss L. F. Q.—How can I gain weight?
A.—Proper dieting is the secret. You should eat nourishing foods and have plenty of sleep and rest. Deep breathing is essential.

Annabel Q.—What causes twitching below the eyelids?
A.—This may be due to nervousness. First of all try to remove the nervousness. It would be wise to have your eyes examined.—Copyright,

NATIONAL ORIGINS.

The fact that the national origin method of allotting immigration quotas will alter little the most important existing lines of restriction should again be noted now that the senate has voted in effect against further postponement of the permanent basis written in the law of 1921. The basis which on July 1 is to be supplanted, two per cent. of the foreign born of each nationality as determined by the census of 1890, was adopted because it admitted an acceptable ratio as between northwest and southeast Europe. It has given the former a large preponderance, 85.6 per cent. to the latter's 12.3 per cent. of the total immigration.

When the house in 1921 accepted the senate's national origins scheme—a racial cross section of our whole population, admitting 150,000 immigrants—it was forecast that the European balance would not be much disturbed. National origins as proclaimed here out that prediction. The new percentages are 81.5 per cent. for northwest Europe to 15.5 per cent. for southeast Europe. The older immigrant stocks, which the country
feels are the more assimilable, maintain ascendancy.

A quota nearly doubled by the national origins
rule is that of England, Scotland, Wales and north Ireland, while that of Germany is cut in half.
Among the alienists reduced are those of the Irish Free State, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.
Regardless, however, of northern gains and losses
in changing from one quota standard to another,
there can be no quarrel with the ideal of proportioning immigration to the racial make-up of the people of the United States.

But the experts assigned in sort out origins found that they must do a great deal of "estimating," in short, of guessing. Naturally, a man of President Hoover's engineering accuracy was not satisfied with figures based on probabilities and suppositions. He took the scientific view in urging that the national origins system be deferred until
it could be built on dependable statistics.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, the father of the idea in the senate, has protected his child desperately and finally saved it. National origins, imperfectly worked out, would certainly have been pigeonholed once more if the plan had had a less vigilant, able and sincere champion than Senator Reed.—New York Herald Tribune.

AMBASSADOR DAWES ARRIVES.
The reception that Ambassador Dawes met in Great Britain was gratifying. The reporters were attentive. Their questions were gracious, and Americans have always found them. The prime minister, with whom General Dawes will come into closer contact, was demonstratively cordial.
This was unexpected. Great Britain seems to have been awaiting Ambassador Dawes' coming with an impatience born of the hope that he can do much to lessen the tension that has developed between it and his own country.

Anglo-American history unquestionably will be made during his official residence at the court of St. James. There is abundant material to work with. The paths of the United States and Great Britain cross at many points. Ambassador Houghton once pointed out that the differences between the two countries are as natural and as inevitable as squabbles among our own states. They need not be dangerous to peace. The controversy now attracting most attention is over naval strength. That even is amenable to common sense.
The Geneva parity failed because it never rose above a dispute between experts over technical details. Statesmanship must step in and define the objective to be sought. The task of the naval experts is then to figure out how it may best be attained.

A great deal is expected of the happy coincidence of Mr. Hoover's administration with the return of Mr. MacDonough to office in Great Britain. They share a passion for peace and good will founded on an intelligent appreciation of the social and economic value of harmony. They are likely to seek it with a minimum of circumlocution.
As a liaison officer between two such men, General Dawes has an assignment in which his temperament and training can be made to serve the cause in which they are enlisted.—Detroit Free Press.

New York Day by Day.

BY G. O. MINYRE.

New York, June 21.—Thoughts while strolling: Gushing middle-aged women who "chaperone" young artists. And grown-up ladies who carry Teddy bears. Nothing so careless as a hotel about to come down. The negro with rattle-skin hat band selling rubber snakes around the Plaza fountain.
Sincier Lewis, a Sauk Center, Minnesota, boy, who made good in the city. The adagio dancer who is a Sunday-school teacher. Glenn Anders looks like a college boy. Senool teacher trippers. Benn: Leonard's sick hair.
Beauty parlor cash boy. An insolent taxi driver hurries the dime up at his fare. Vash Young window shopping.

Long-haired dreamers who carry limp leather sketch books. Elton Glynn's wide-brimmed hat. Ladies brilliant as electric lights are brilliant. Gigolo types roaming hotel lobbies with the gait of a sure-footed
cat. The outside gloom of the Pennsylvania station at night. The tangles grow dismal.

Moll, Picon, the Yiddish comedienne.
Praised by Griffith, if that means anything.
The boys with dinky mustaches and derbies who ride in roadsters. Palm smothered table d'hoties. Who remembers when hand-painted coal vases were what hot? The drug store arms of naked milk lurchers. If, H. Van Loon is Mayor Walker's double. So is Neal O'Hara.

Mrs. Brock Pemberton, who has costumed so many stage hits. Sedate candy stores refusing to go rhin stone. Lily-cool green frocks and wide flapping hats. Stock favorites from the outland scenes the summer shows. The flapper first nighter who sports a moulton. Whatever became of Jesse Reed?

And now the hired book endorser is three-shotted on billboards. All night dental parlors featuring half price after 3 a. m. Ted Healy, a new favorite of the revues. A paluma shop. New York's breadbasket words.
"gorgeous" and "absolutely." Mme. Alda the opera. The white-haired dramatic critic in town. E. W. Osborn.

Ladies berets that may be carried in vanity cases. A new ice drink—watermelon juice. One fifty-nine shirts again. Pretty hard to resist stopping to watch them lay an asphalt sidewalk. Autograph collectors waiting at stage doors. The Madison avenue shop where President Hoover buys his cigars.
Very wah-wah.

A true story. She was living high up in a boardhouse hall room awaiting an engagement in a chorus. One midnight her agent phoned her to meet him at a certain yachting club. He had provided her as a guest for a rich man on a week-end yachting trip along with several other merry Magdalens. The yacht owner fell in love at first sight, and she fell in love with him. When she returned she deposited $17,000 in a bank for her trousseau. Three weeks later he died. Six weeks later she was broke again and hunting
a job. Broadway! Dear old Broadway!

The speed of New York building wreckers offers a bit of metropolitan magic. In the destruction of a large building a day overtime calls a gigantic loss. Wreckers estimate the time required, and it takes more time they must pay a forfeit. If they beat their own estimate they receive a bonus. The old Broadway theater was recently razed in fifteen days. The Vanderbilt mansion wreckers bargained to complete the job in twenty days and took thirty-one—thereby taking a big loss. The most famous of the wreckers was Jacob Volk, son of an East Side butcher. Volk passed on recently won millions. His crews demolished some of the biggest structures. He could almost tell at a glance how long it would take to bring a building down. His great ambition was to take the Woodbury tower, supposed to have the greatest of all architectural permanence. He believed it could be done in a year.

An overworked parlor trick is to enter the room with a hat and inquire of any one what they would like to see taken out of it. "A rabbit," will be the reply and out comes a toy rabbit. Psychological stuff. In actual tests ninety-five out of 100 will say a rabbit.

Mayor Walker's usual companion in the theater is the publisher Paul Block. So far they have always managed to be in their seats before the final curtain. And at most shows that's time enough for anybody.

Courtesy Ryley Cooper was seen pacing up and down nervously in front of a Madison avenue tailor shop where "a set of threads" cost $210—the highest price for a tailored suit in town. "I'm trying to sell myself the idea," he explained to a friend.—Copyright,

Gravitation.

BY GARRETT P. SERVITS.

"I would like you to explain just what holds a planet in its orbit.—L. S. Pittsburgh."

The gravitation of the sun does it. Newton said he did not know what gravitation was, but he did know that it acted as if it were an attraction between all particles or masses of matter in the universe, proportional to the amount of mass in each body and inversely proportional to the square of the distance between the bodies. Einstein has another idea, which you may grasp if you care
to make a study of the mathematics he uses.
For practical purposes we need pay no attention to Einstein's ideas about the nature of
gravitation.

Remember there is one thing about the planets and their motions which we certainly do not know, viz. the exact way in which they were launched into space. There are theories upon theories about it, as you may read in George Larson's recent book on "The Discovery of the Earth," but nobody actually knows. Here we must be content.
Newton was, to take what we find, and—
as far as exact calculations are concerned—
to refrain from hypotheses.

We start then with the planets revolving around the sun, having been set in motion by some original impulse which we leave as a subject for speculation. But they being once thrown out into space within the exact gravitational field, we are able by Newton's laws of motion to perceive how they are "held" in their orbits and how they move.
It is the sun's attraction that holds
them, and also keeps them moving.

Having once been set going they continue, by virtue of their inertia of motion. The original impulse gave them this inertia. The attraction of the sun drew them into orbits of various shapes and sizes. But as doing so, it changed the direction of motion from straight to curved. This change of direction—known as an acceleration—is a continually acting force, due to the sun's attraction, and it is this that keeps the planets following their elliptical curves around the sun.

Now as for how to study this matter for yourself, it is a thorough mathematical study of it,
you should get some work on celestial mechanics—say Moulton's. But probably you only wish to make yourself master of the underlying facts and principles. For that purpose I can recommend no book of greater value than
"Astronomy," by Tussell, Dugan and Stewart.
A revision of a famous school book of the past generation, Professor Young's "Manual of Astronomy." This work is published in two volumes, but it is worth the space. It is authoritative, up to date and clear and interesting in treatment. You will find it probably as much as you need to know about planetary motion. You will have to give attention, and put on your real thinking cap, of course. But you will remember that when you enter the halls of astronomy you are in good intellectual company.

A correspondent at Stanton, Michigan,
asks a rather curious question which I append: "Suppose the law of gravitation could be suddenly suspended but for this earth only, would the planet continue its course in a direct line, and would it ever slacken its motion? Also would such an event disrupt the regular orderly movement of other planets except in case of collision?"

What has been said about inertia, etc., supplies the answer. If the earth ceased to attract or to be attracted, its inertia of movement would continue, while the rest would cease to "accelerate" it into a curved orbit. Consequently it would shoot straight ahead and if there were no resistance in space its speed would not change. As it would exercise no gravitational force, it would have no effect upon the motions of other bodies
near which it passed, except as you sur

"White Fire" An Absorbing New Emotional Serial of Love and Life on the Stage

"Yes, I know. . . All the same, the gray eyes darted, and took a turn down the room. The dusk filled them; it was the vision of a strand without fence, that presently went on in a voice of dissonance as distilled water. . . a one-sided bargain is no good. . . We can't afford to start any misunderstanding each other in the least. Suppose you tell me straight out what's in your mind."

"Simply a joint endeavor to work out a modus vivendi more tolerable than loneliness would be. Neither of us has anything to lose by giving friendship and sympathy. Jenny, but something to gain. It isn't enough merely to live in this life, one must give something to live for. That's why this isn't a one-sided bargain. I'm counting on it. If we go on together, I shall have you to encourage me in my plans to make a new life, and—"

"But what will you do?"

"I haven't decided yet; I will find something to aim at—I must."

"You won't go back to practicing law?"

"No," Tabor replied; "that at least is decided. Whatever life Tabor dreams of, this much is sure, it won't be the life of a lawyer. . . I suppose that's wise. But . . . and it will help me to have your professional career to watch. So you see, I too, am thinking of myself."

"You don't want me to give up the stage?" the girl sharply cried—"you don't think I ought to?"

"To what possible end? It is your life. The truth is, Jenny, you have a fine idea of giving it up. . . That's what I'm a failure!"

"You're nothing of the sort; you're being paid out with temporary respect for neglecting your duty to yourself. In time that duty will have been cared for, things will take a turn, you'll begin to forge ahead once more."

"You honestly believe it not too late? I might succeed yet!"

"Why not? You're not a good intelligence," Tabor affirmed—"too good to permit your failing at anything you ever give yourself to in good earnest."

"I hope you're right," Tabor said, the graceful hands, pale against the dark stuff of the dress, caught to the other again. "I'll try my best to prove you are."

"Then you won't begrudge me the side of Tabor's chair. One of her hands lightly fell upon his shoulder. . . You're sure about this, Tabor, isn't it wise and you wish to give it a try?"

He smiled up to that unsmiling face, and took the hand that was idle. "Quite sure, Jenny."

"And is that all? I mean, we've covered all the ground now, haven't we? There isn't perhaps something you've forgotten to mention?"

"I don't think so. There will be adjustments to be made, naturally; things we can deal with as they come up, but I quite believe we will be able to do so without friction."

"Then it's a go?"

"I will do all I can to make it so."

The girl's fingers tightened. "You're a strange man, Tabor."

"But aren't we all strange till you get to know us as we well, and after that more common clay?"

"I hope not," Jennifer disengaged her hand, and dismissed the subject with a light "Then that's that," adding as she moved off: "I'd better run down and tell them to send the Times in morning; after this it always has a lot of 'apartments to let' ads."

Jennifer had not been gone two minutes when a knock headed a caller, a young man, turned out in the extreme conservatism of Southern dress, with the turned collar of the English and an extremely fit look to match.

"All alone, Mr. Tabor?" Jennifer, I'll come in. He did so and closed the door.

"Where's Jenny?"

"She went downstairs to speak to Madame Benelli. I believe she will be back any minute."

"Will she, by Jove?" The gentleman smartly set up. "Then I'd better wait just fast. Because, you know, old man, you owe the honor of this special invitation not so much to an unhappy passion for your society as to the fact that I want to borrow $500 till my new show opens and I get the first week's pay. Don't stop to think twice, I beg you, in cases like this; second thoughts are almost always fatal to the applicant. Can you spare it? My name's Tormay."

"First," said Tabor, smiling, "I want to know why you said you'd have to 'work fast'?"

"Because you're a precious innocent in the theatrical world, dear sir, where your wife is a wise young woman. You've only got to ask her, she'll tell you like a good thing the surest way to bid money good-bye forever is to lend it to an actor. Do I get the five?"

"I presume I shall have to risk it," Tabor consented, hugely amused, and counted out the notes into a ready palm.

"Brightly good of you," Tormay vowed in a tone whose thoughtfulness suited the look that observed how swollen Tabor's nostrils were. "I only hope I don't forget to pay you back."

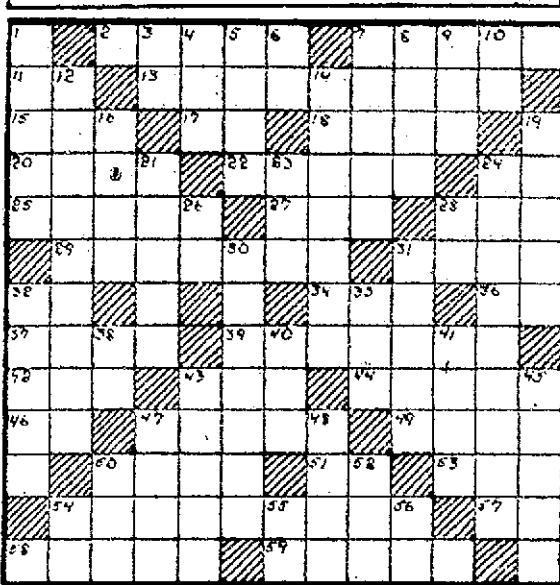

"I don't believe you're likely to," the dark-eyed girl said with its warning rattle, and he described a dramatic recoil and gave a groan. "Trapped!"—between set teeth. "That's what one gets for letting social life interfere with business," he said in careful aside. "I might have stolen away and Jenny gone the other way. I hadn't stopped to be faulty."

A brilliant young person, coming in with Jennifer, looked him first. "There you are, Nigel," she cried in exaggerated reproach—"bliding from me!"

"Fat chance!" a hollow voice returned; and Tormay bowed the head of a haughty child.

"Good evening, Mr. Drew," the brilliant young woman cried with animation, and was at Tabor's side with gloved fingers lightly pressing on his shoulder before he could say, "No; conversations don't get up

When Tabor came into the room. In still and tell me all."

"All?"

"All not more, I mean, whatever the bank was that Nigel's been filling your poor ears with all this while, and now waiting to be taken out to dinner?"

"It's a sad story," Tormay shamelessly reported. "But it worked; we got."

"And they call you a bad actor!" Morn Desmond eyed Tabor's flushed face and stroked his sleeve. "Nice Tabor, she said—'nice!'"

Encourage that she had given him a nickname that was to stick. "Tabor had a quiet chuckle. He liked, her impudence. It was native, spontaneous, unfeigned, she carried it off with an air to him novel and rather amusing. "Is this good looking contrived beauty? The girl was fair and whether by art or act of fate, colored to admiration. Her eyes were uncommonly large and lively, but never bold—thoroughly trained for the work they had to do for Morn. In private life, at least, or in what passed for that in the Maison Benelli, she had every trick of the theater at her prodigious fingertips."

Jennifer was cornering Tormay with a helpless frown. "Nigel!" she said as one who despaired of him.

"It can't be helped, Jenny," he argued. "One can't live without eating and an actor must live."

"Someday," she began flustering you," she darkly intimated.

Tormay's cheeks reddened, but he couldn't refuse to laugh; and Morn Desmond crowded and hopped down to catch his arm. "Come along, Nigel. The only answer is a three-letter word meaning a female that travels in her own car, and you mustn't forget you're a gentleman every weekday night and matinee Wednesdays and Saturdays. What's more, I need food and you need air."

The young man suffered himself to be led to the door, but there hung back. "Don't be cross, Jenny," he pleaded. "I only nicked him for fifty and I'll pay it back the first week after we open."

"And when will that be?"

"I don't know to a day. If I get the berth I'm hoping for, I'll probably start rehearsing week after week."

"Oh!" the girl cried, half in anger, half in laughter—"get along with you!"

Friday. And as for as Tabor. I let Jennifer down and put on my brightest and tell Jennifer because I was thinking about the half dollar we have each got for rehearsal, and my mother hollered and asked me if I was hurt and I said "No, thank you," to her. "Don't do it again," I bet if I had of hurt myself she would of let me do it as often as I liked. But I wouldn't like it at all. When I was reaching for the milk pail with one hand I was feeling in my pocket with the other, and there was something in my pocket that I didn't know what it was, and it was a couple of the black pills Gosh had brought to put in our whistles. I put them in my mouth, but they didn't have any taste to me. So I chewed them up, and then I went outside and stuck my face under the hydrant and let the water run into it. The black pills were pepper, and my tongue felt like it was fried and my teeth were red hot. I spit on the back step to see if it was wet, and the house on fire, but it didn't. I was surprised. My spit didn't even steam and when I put my finger in it it was cold. Then I put one of my other fingers in my mouth and my mouth felt cool to my finger, but not to me—not to me. Pepper is funny that it can be as hot as it is and not sweet. We made a bunch of pinbooks and got some worms and cans and took some linen thread and when we had got the cows in the pasture and our clothes off and had a swim we hit our books and sat along the bank and fished, but the fishing was not so very good, so we gathered up our clothes and went over through the woods to Mud Turtle pond, and there is always swamps and little woods and tangle in there, because there ain't no way for them to get out. We put on our clothes and when we got to the pond and started back when it was dark (at 10) to take the cows home, and all of a sudden I missed something and my book didn't have any! Oh! I don't know when I have ever felt so scared. I looked everywhere, and we walked all the way back to the house where we had looked out before of looking at the way and finding nothing. Then I thought I saw a flash of light, and I thought of Tabor's face and I gathered that she was peeking at us, and I was not so sure. Then I saw a flash of light and I thought of Tabor's face and I gathered that she was peeking at us, and I was not so sure. Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADOLPH GARRISON

Lillian Interprets Letter as an Alibi for Charles Owen

"THE alibi for Charles Owen?" I repeated with those intense, staring eyes, those enormous, deep-set eyes, the hotel I had forgotten—the existence of Samuel Benelli's brother-in-law.

"Yes," Lillian purred, looking quizzically at me over her daughter's letter. "Is your vacated memory failing? Don't you remember we decided that the last would use an alibi because of George's recognition of him as a fugitive from Texas that night at your house?"

"Of course I remember," I retorted. "Alibi I have a vivid recollection of. Henry's belief that Owen must have sent word of Prince George's whereabouts to his cousin's henchmen who are trying to murder him. Does this alibi clear him of that charge?"

"Yes," that is something which couldn't possibly be proved, it does not," she said dryly. "That it definitely eliminates him from what the child's family term the 'event of the evening.' Henry's what Lillian says."

She picked up the letter again and I settled into attention.

"Do you know, Mamma, Carolyn and I saw the way of Senator Hall because of the change Carolyn's uncle, Mr. Owen, is sending up. You see, he didn't stay at Sacramento as the dictionary said—they were there for three whole days after school opened. But he went away right after we bought Mr. Benelli back, which was just after you left. I guess Mrs. Benelli and Ronald didn't like it very well either because, of course, he took his case with him, and Mr. Benelli took the big case over day and went scotching around the country looking for good estate investments. That's what he told us—it left Mrs. Benelli and Ronald stranded at the hotel with no one. Ron said his stepfather told him to hire a car if he wanted to take his mother out, but his mother wouldn't let him do it."

Lillian looked the letter and looked across at me with a little grimace.

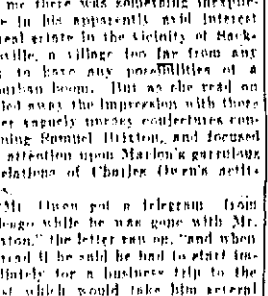

"My daughter is certainly wondering around Cape Horn instead of going through the canal," she said. "But she gets down to cases in the next sentence."

I wondered if her omission of any comment upon Samuel Benelli's uncomfortable behavior was intentional. To me there was something inexplicable in his apparently wild interest in real estate in the vicinity of Berkeley, a village two far from and close to have any possibilities of a suburban home. But as she read on I lost away the impression with those other vaguely memory confusions concerning Samuel Benelli, and focused my attention upon Lillian's garbled recollections of Charles Owen's activities.

"Mr. Owen got a telegram from Chicago while he was gone with Mr. Benelli," the letter ran on, "and when he read it he said he had to start immediately for a business trip to the West which would take him several weeks. And he left it right away in his car, only stopping to 'pop' him as he called it. He has the most marvellous car, Mamma, not only quick but, yes, I'd like to have one like it some day. I'm the same make an auto." Lillian smiled whimsically across at me, and I knew how gratified she was at Lillian's unimpaired use of the ground in referring to her stepfather's car—"pop" it's one of the best engines going, and then Carolyn says her uncle values it most because he can get repairs for it at any carter's shop. He takes care of it as if it were a baby, Carolyn says, so it is always in condition. But the body is really wonderful. It looks like the ordinary auto, but all the inside of it is paneled so you can take them out, and they're fitted up with everything you can think of for comfort and cheering out. And then it looks like a fancy bus-like suitcases. On the luggage carrier in a specially made waterproof trunk he has a folding out arrangement, a collapsible mattress and blankets, a folding waterproof canopy with curtains. And he has folding rods on the car so that if he doesn't want to go to a hotel he can fix up the top of the car into a regular little room. He always carries plenty of emergency rations with him, and he has guns and fishing rods so that he can 'live off the country.'"

"I suppose I ought not to say anything about the guns. He didn't tell Carolyn about them. They're behind one of the panels which he didn't show her, and which doesn't look as if it would open—no regular panel, isn't that—opening? But Carolyn has been reading some of those old stories about canines and secret panels—Ope! the old exciting times have come back again, haven't they?—and she rubbed around one day until she found out how to open that panel. But when she saw what was behind it she shut it up again mighty quick. And she never dared tell him she'd opened it."

Here with is the solution to yesterday's puzzle.

CRUEL MURDER WILL AFFECT SIX LIVES

Parents of Girl, Snook's Wife and Child, Meyers—and Snook

COLUMBUS, June 21—The cruel and almost inhuman deed of Dr. James H. Snook, who shot and killed his wife, Miss Theora Hix, at the same college with whom from a hamper and then covering the attractive girl's singular vein with a common pocket knife will affect the lives of at least a half dozen persons.

First there are the aged parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hix of Brimfield, Pa.

Mr. Hix will never forget the one sight of his daughter's dead on a cold marble slab in a morgue here. She was the daughter of his daughter, the daughter of his daughter.

Next there is the life of the doctor's wife, Mrs. Snook. Though her death is a sympathetic and comfort in her hour of affliction the woman will always be pointed out on the streets as the wife of the man who beat Miss Theora Hix to death with a hammer and then struck a knife into her throat.

Again there is the two-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Snook, a daughter who never received attention from her father, a daughter who lived under the shabby wings of her mother and a daughter who was born into the world to live down the name of her father.

At Last—Snook
Marion F. Meyers, another deposed university faculty member and the counsel of Miss Hix who was for a time held for investigation in connection with the crime, also will feel the disgrace of Dr. Snook's revolt, crime, Meyers has already paid. His dismissal from the staff of the university has been announced and it is expected the board of trustees will honor the common law. And it is his lot too to be pointed out as one of the losers of Miss Hix.

Just and probably least inasmuch as society and law deems it justice is Dr. Snook himself.

It is expected he will be indicted on a first degree murder charge today.

He will then face a trial which will end in—his a jail and freedom, or his sentence to death in the electric chair or at least a life sentence in the Ohio State penitentiary.

Snook's Confession Given to Police in Short, Terse Sentences Following Spell of Crying

Prosecutor Doesn't Believe Ohio State "Prof" Has Told "Entire Story"

COLUMBUS, June 21—A university professor Dr. James H. Snook, recalled by his friends as a man whose approach beat Miss Theora Hix, co-educator of the Ohio State university, with a hammer and then struck a knife in her throat according to the confession which the man told to police in short, terse sentences which followed a crying spell of the usually taciturn man.

Dr. Snook before he finally broke down and confessed to the brutal slaying of his wife for a period of 45 minutes, according to Prosecutor John I. Chester who obtained the confession.

The young county prosecutor said he did not believe Snook's confession was the entire story, but at the same time expressed the belief that it was sufficient.

Confession of Snook
The confession of Dr. Snook as given to the national news service by Chester follows:

Q Now, Doctor, I want to ask just one or two questions first and then you can go ahead and write it in your own language just like you did the last time. What is your full name? A James H. Snook.

Q And you live here? A Yes, sir.

Q And where do you live at the present time? A 110 West 14th st.

Q Now, Doctor, you may go ahead and just tell to the stenographer in your own language the occurrence which happened on the night of June 19th of this year.

A I lacked companionship.

A I met Theora Hix about three years ago. The friendship continued in a very intimate way ever since.

PROTEST TARGET

Dr. J. M. Moran, commissioner of prohibition, thus denies that he inspired the customs border terrorism, as alleged by Rep. R. H. Clancy of Michigan, who said Doran's threats to take jobs from the guards made them too zealous. Mr. Doran says the customs patrol does not run under his jurisdiction in the prohibition department, therefore he could not order them around.

AFGHAN BANDITS ARE BEATEN BY SOVIETS

240 Killed in Fierce Fighting in Turkestan Raiders Flee

MOSCOW, June 21—A vivid detail of fierce fighting in Soviet Turkestan where Trans-Caspian Cossacks drove out marauding bands of Afghan tribesmen have at last reached Moscow six weeks after the last remnants of the raiders fled back across the frontier into the Afghan hills. The total number killed is conservatively estimated at 240, of which the Soviets lost 30 killed and the enemy 201.

Commander Dibenko of the central Asiatic military district reported to the commissariat of war that a small band of Afghan tribesmen, a mountain tribe that lives in banditry invaded Soviet Turkestan at a point almost unguarded by the Asiatic forces of the Red army.

The Basmachi were commanded by the collector Baron Maxim Laisov, supported by the self-styled amir of Afghanistan, Babur Sakao.

Laisov penetrated 10 miles into Soviet territory to the town of Kall Lashib where he called a mass meeting of 500 Mohammedan inhabitants and proclaimed that he was fighting for the liberation of Moslem Turkestan from the hands of Soviet yoke.

Two more tribes and 100 troops are coming to help me in this crusade, he said. At Kall Lashib enthusiastic swelled Falsala forces to 150 men with whom he marched on the important caravan center of Gura which if captured would control the route across the desert to Soviet Persia.

Says He Killed Hix Girl Because She Threatened Wife, Child

After the struggle was over I discovered the gun was not in the purse.

Q Now, Doctor, I want to ask you just a couple of questions. Are you making this statement voluntarily? A Yes, sir.

Q And everything that you have said in this statement is the truth, is it? A Yes, sir.

Cuts Jugular Vein

She continued desperately and an increased number of hours of increasing force was necessary to stop her. Realizing then no doubt that her skull was fractured and to relieve her suffering I severed her jugular vein with my pocket knife. I then proceeded to pick up the things that had been scattered during the struggle and hurriedly left the scene of the struggle, leaving her body at that point.

The instrument which I used to cut her was a hammer which was lying on the back of the seat of the hotel. After leaving the rifle range I then proceeded to go home losing the purse from the quarry bridge into the river.

SPANISH PLANE TO TRY ATLANTIC HOP

Three Stops To Be Made Before Landing in U. S.

MADRID, June 21—The giant Spanish amphibian plane "Numancia" will attempt to fly from Madrid to New York today, making three stops en route.

The plane, which was built by the Spanish government, will be piloted by Captain Ramon Franco, famous Spanish aviator, who will pilot the plane.

After reaching the United States, the plane will make a return flight over the same route or to continue southward to Havana and Mexico City on the trip around the world which was originally scheduled for the spring of 1932.

According to Franco's original plan, the "Numancia" will fly from Madrid to New York, then up the Pacific coast to Alaska, across the Bering sea, down the Siberian coast to Japan, then across southern Asia and Europe back to Spain. He planned to fly about 25,000 miles in about 45 days making only 20 stops.

The aviator hopes to reach the United States in 18 hours, and to complete the second stage of the flight in 24 hours.

After reaching the United States, the plane will make a return flight over the same route or to continue southward to Havana and Mexico City on the trip around the world which was originally scheduled for the spring of 1932.

Dark and slim is the chic silhouette of the season. Miss Francis hearkens to the dictates of fashion and wears an evening gown of black crepe and tulle that falls in subtle and lengthy folds to the ground.

The jury at his trial found him guilty of first-degree murder without a recommendation for mercy. He was convicted of slaying Mrs. Mary Gilmore, the mother of his wife, Lucy.

The young girl was his seventh bride. At the trial, Locke based his defense on his belief that a man is not entirely sane when he is in "love."

FILM STARS "MIKE" CONSCIOUS AT FIRST

Says There's Nothing Comparable to Ordeal of Initial Talkie Adventure

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 21—Stars in Hollywood declare that the first day before the microphone is an ordeal comparable to nothing in their experience.

Even the stage people suffer from unconsciousness.

No doubt, Marion Davies was a little nervous, too, but she seemed composed enough a few days ago, after her first morning of dialogue taken for "Marionne."

It's been a strange time of panic in Hollywood since the coming of the talkies. So many of the stars have gone to blindly for every form of voice culture, breathing exercises, enunciation, diction, and the like.

I find Miss Davies' viewpoint a refreshing and sensible approach to the dialogue film.

She hasn't made a hurried study of these things. She hasn't worried about voice culture at all, other than in singing. And this is no new study for her. She has been interested in it ever since she was on the stage.

"I would rather speak naturally," says the star, "than to be a little more precise in my stage diction at the cost of this equality."

"If you try to remember all of these tricks, you have a tendency to become self-conscious."

"Of course, I am interested in my voice. And if it needs developing I am going to attend to it."

"But I have a lot of faith in just speaking as you would in every day life."

"And I don't want to do a lot of unnecessary dramas to put over a scene."

In her first dialogue film, Miss Davies is required to speak with a French accent. Some of the dialogue, men, is in French. Without claiming to be an expert in the dialogue and the language, I thought she did a very good job of it in the scenes I saw recorded yesterday.

"I'm going to talk fast and if I make a mistake maybe they won't catch on," she said with a smile.

"Do you like the talkies?" I asked her.

"Certainly, I like them," she replied. "They're something new. That is why the screen is making the stage sit up and take notice. It's always after something new."

Good medicine tastes bad—and it is no better for that.

Delaware & Marion Electric Co. station, North State st., was being prepared today for removal.

Mrs. Winter will in the future, she said, conduct only one news-stand, that at the new C. D. & M. station, West Center st., which she has been operating since last fall. She will close the North State st. stand Saturday night.

Decision to move the stand came following the demand of the Salvation Army that the stand either close on Sunday or move. The Salvation Army recently took over the building for its headquarters and at one notified Mrs. Winter and James Reed, high school graduate of this year who has been operating a shoe-shining parlor, that they must either close their stands on Sunday or move. Inasmuch as Sunday is the busiest day of the week for the news-stand, Mrs. Winter decided to move out.

Reed plans to continue his stand for some time to see if it will be profitable with Sunday closing.

Mrs. Winter has operated her stand for six years, taking it over from Lee and Hipper. Reed has been educating himself and a number of other school boys through employment of his shoe stand. He also operates a stand in South Main st.

Charles E. Miller owns the Salvation Army building.

SHERIFF'S CAR IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Son Burned While Attempting To Extinguish Blaze

A short circuit in the wiring of an automobile owned by Sheriff John J. Francis last night caused a fire which seriously damaged the machine. The fire, which occurred in Kenton, broke out shortly after Robert Francis, son of the sheriff, had parked the machine. Francis' hands were burned in attempting to extinguish the blaze. He received medical attention at the office of a Kenton physician.

Upholstering and the top of the car were destroyed before the fire was extinguished by the Kenton fire department.

SNOOK CLASSMATE OF OFFICIAL HERE

player of Coed Was Ideal of Class; Brought Honor to School

Mr. H. Snook, said to be the con- sidered number of Miss Theora Hix, of the Ohio State coed, was a classmate of Dr. J. T. Gruber, in- charge of meats and milk in the city department. They graduated from the Ohio State University in 1908.

He is the last man in the world to be doing anything like this, Gruber said in referring to the confessed escapades and antics.

He was a very businesslike man, but much foolishness about him, some did I see a trace of viciousness about him.

He was the ideal of the class, in school and in outside activities. He was a honor student, and also brought honor to the class by his playing a marksmanship. He made the team, and was always respected by his classmates.

"I will say nothing but good about him, for never did I see him do a questionable act."

Seiter and Somerlot Win Horseshoe Event

Seiter and Carl Somerlot won the horseshoe contests of the Pleasanton horseshoe club held at the Pleasanton club house, yesterday. The winners were all close but Seiter and Somerlot had a small edge when the scores were summed up.

It is planned to hold contests every Tuesday during this summer at the club. Everyone is welcome to try their luck.

Issue Set of Rules for Summer Visitors

POSTON—The suggestions to New England communities for facilitating the pleasure and comfort of New England's 2,000,000 summer visitors and this stimulating an industry of great economic importance, was issued by the Recreational Development Committee of the New England Council of which Col. William A. Barron, of Crawford Notch, N. H., is chairman. This "decree" of suggestions was made, the committee said, because each community's participation in the benefits of the recreational industry will largely depend on its attitude toward its summer customer-guests. Many a so-called crater is merely a barren photograph.

BY BOB FLOTT
A T T I L E what has happened in the last couple of weeks in Marion recreation ball is the unexpected defeat of the hard hitting Erie Roundhouse nine at the hands of the Hocking Valley yesterday caused only a mild ripple of excitement. However it was the upset of the industrial lead in the Roundhouse loss by the denials score of 7 to 2.

Turn 11 and Osgood both won at the last night's game. The team in the first and has more in the second when the numbers built all the way around. Ben Jones will tell Richards and was not scored during the rest of the game. The losers touched Gruber for five hits, three of which came in the fourth when their team were scored.

Richards and Myron Gibson collaborated to send the Fairfield to a 2 to 0 victory over the C. D. & M. Both of these men allowed gentle men socked Zuppana delivery for one home run each and with Gibson allowing just three hits and not an Erie to reach third base these two runs were more than ample.

Huber spring another small surprise by nailing out the Shovel Club 5 to 1 in eight innings. The losers scored twice in the first inning, both runners came back with three in their half. The winners got six hits and the losers only five. Simmons, Huber first sacker, was the heavy hitter with three hits and a walk. The summaries:

Cubs To Defend Leadership In Series With Bucs Today

WHITE SOX ADDITION

Infielder Francis Sizemore is the newest addition to the White Sox having been obtained from the Tigers on waivers. Sizemore was used as a shortstop for a brief time this year by the Chicago White Sox.

BRUINS HALF GAME IN FRONT; DEFEAT CARDS 4 OUT OF 5

Giants Gain in Race With Three Upper Berth Teams

BY LES CONKLIN
H A V I N G known the Cardinals out of first place by polishing them off in four out of five games the Cubs will endeavor to defend first place against Pittsburgh in the series starting in Chicago today. The winning Wireless drew half a game ahead of the Sox by beating St. Louis again yesterday 7 to 0, while Pittsburgh was idle.

When Hack Wilson rubs dirt on his pants and glares belligerently at the Pittsburgh pitcher as he steps to the plate today, he will be writing all over him for the index center fielder is on a 10 hit old time home run spree. He has not scored five runs in the last three days but two homers yesterday being the blows that killed father Drexler's men.

While Wilson was merrily running 15 and 16 on his home run record Hornsby smacked his tenth round tripper of the campaign and Kiki Cuyler caused Earl Smith to look a deeper red than his hair by plugging three bases on the fiery St. Louis ace.

The Giants advanced to within a point of the Cardinals in the third place race by making it three straight over the Phillies, 11 to 6. The rejuvenated Boston Braves also made it three straight from Brooklyn 4 to 2 and displaced the Robins in sixth place.

Young I. Walsh of the White Sox looked like his famous dad at his best when he held the Browns to four hits, winning his own game, 5 to 3 by batting in two runs.

Two pitchers who formerly starred in the American Association were beaten when Jimmy Zinn of Cleveland lost 1 to 0 to Detroit and Ad Jiska of Washington was beaten by the Red Sox 6 to 1. Vic Sorrell who hurled for Detroit hung up his sixth consecutive victory and his ninth win of the year.

RECREATION SCHEDULES

FRIDAY
Commercial League—Prospect vs K of P at Fairfield. Howitzer vs Kappas at Garfield. Eagles vs Shovel at Shore, A. M. E. vs Star at Lincoln.

SIGNS AS COACH
WASHINGTON, Pa., June 21.—Wilbur (Fat) Henry of Mansfield, Ohio, former all American at K. at Washington and Jefferson college here, has signed a contract to join the football coaching staff of the presidentia this fall.

American league. Personally, I never heard of a payoff on the part of June but everyone seems to feel that this is it, the idea being that if the three champion teams do not cut materially into the Athletics lead during the in-game series ending, on Sunday, they can go right out and sell themselves to the nearest delinquent in other words they and their penitent chumps will be cooked.

The Athletics were 7 to 6 games out in front before a 13 to 5 double header which was expected to produce a crowd of 50,000 and to remount some of the stirring scenes of last September when this poor battled to the death over the 1928 pennant. The course on this occasion was instantly identified by the large A that adorned its bison. Today a double header may tell a new story or retell the old. In any case it largely will for cost the course this series is to take.

Two games will be played tomorrow and the finale on Sunday by which time the all time paid attendance record of $5,265 for a single day established in the 1928 series may be no more.

YOUNG PLAYERS ARE MAINSTAY OF TEAM TO BATTLE EAGLES

One of Fastest Nines in Northern Part of Ohio Shows Here Sunday

O N E of the best semi-pro baseball teams in the northern section of the state will be seen in Marion next Sunday afternoon when the Wakeman Red Caps oppose the Marion Eagles at Tin Old Park. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Wakeman while a town small in population, size, lines and talks baseball practically all of the time. Their park is said to be one of the finest between Cleveland and Toledo and a number of Big League teams have shown their wares there. Carl Beament southpaw moundsman who was a sophomore in Baldwin Walla's class last year has opposed George Lile Detroit pitcher twice at Wakeman and has given him a fairly good game each time.

Most of the Wakeman team is made up of young players who have plenty of pep and ability. The batting line up is divided about evenly between right and left handed batters and it is a cinch that Sep Good, Marion hurler who throws from the wrong side, will have his hands full next Sunday. Don Bryant third sacker for the Red Caps is a hard hitting right hander and led the team in batting last season with an average of over .500.

Brant is the former third baseman for the Oberlin Motors and has been in semi-pro ranks for more than 10 years.

One of them is a river which never

Tragic Tale of Manon Lescaut, Louisiana Exile, Told in Puccini's Opera of That Name

MANON LESCAUT, an opera in four acts, with music by Giacomo Puccini, has a libretto which is founded on Abbe Prevost's novel, being mainly the work of the composer and a committee of friends.
It was first produced in 1833.

The first scene is laid in a spacious square near the Paris Gate, beside an inn. It is gay with students and citizens, women, girls and soldiers.
New excitement is provided by the arrival of Manon Lescaut. Her brother is with her, and a chance acquaintance, with elderly Geronte, who is in love with the girl. Lescaut is taking his sister to a convent to complete her education, but finding her to be greatly admired by the wealthy Geronte is quite willing to play a negative part and let the old savage plot with the landlord of the inn to abduct Manon. However, the always attractive this time of year. One of the largest inland lakes in the United States may be visited in the course of a day's driving, where there are endless numbers of summer resorts, parks, sandy bathing beaches, etc.

Probably the one resort most attractive to Marion drivers as well as vacationists, is Rye Beach, on Lake Erie, about 68 miles from Marion. This is a pleasant drive for the average family, leaving Marion on state route No. 4 to the north which can be followed to Sandusky, on Lake Erie, within a few miles of the resort. On this trip drivers pass through Bayview, Chatfield, Carleton Place, Attica, Slat, Omer, Reedtown, Weavers, Strongsville, Sand Hills to Sandusky. Rye Beach can be reached by following state route No. 2 out of Sandusky to the east for about seven miles.

To Blue Hole.
A trip to the Blue Hole at Castalia could be enjoyed on this trip with a drive of but a few additional miles. This night alone would be well worth a trip to Castalia, which is located about five miles southwest of Sandusky on state route No. 101. With a glimpse of this natural freak in mind to make the trip one to be remembered, the driver could use his own discretion on return routes to Marion.

Turning directly to the east, a road maintained by Erie county is available to make a return to state route No. 4, which is about four miles east of Castalia. From the junction of state route No. 4, the return trip could be made without leaving this route.

Another return from Castalia that would mean a few additional miles and different scenery, would be state route No. 101 from there to Clyde about 10 or 12 miles southwest of Castalia. From here, an eight-mile drive to the west on national route No. 20 would bring the driver to Fremont, where a few moments might be enjoyed in the Snieland Grove park at the northwest edge of the city.

Total Mileage 175.
A 16-mile drive on state route No. 53, extending directly south of Fremont, passes through Tiffin, the home of the Heidelberg college. Twenty-one miles further along this route lies Upper Sandusky, from which national route No. 23 may be taken to the south to return to Marion.
The total mileage of this trip would run close to 175 miles, a drive that could be made any Sunday or holiday, providing an early start was made.

Fast Time For Letter Sent to Oakland, Cal.

Sale of airplane envelopes and stamps is increasing each day according to postoffice officials. People of Marion are beginning to realize speed and safety with which their mail may be delivered in this manner.

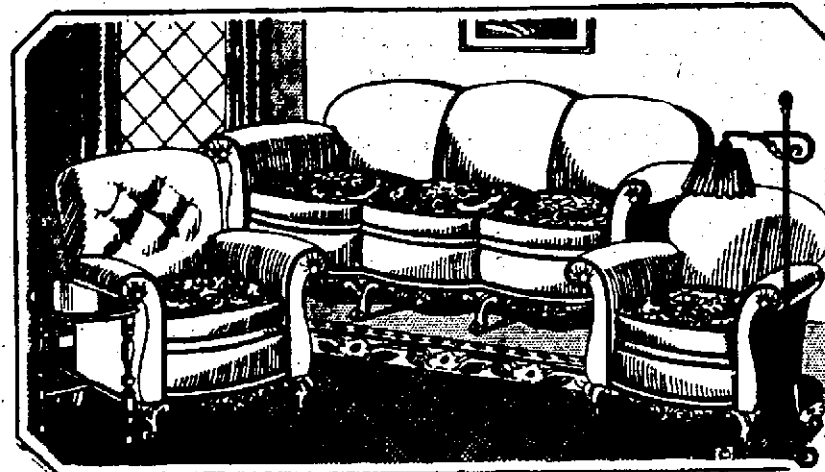

Postmaster French Crow sent a letter from Marion on Erie train No. 7, leaving here at 1:10 o'clock Friday morning, May 10. The letter went to the Chicago office, was transferred by truck from Englewood to the Chicago airport, and left there Friday morning at 8 o'clock. It arrived in San Francisco at 4:30 a. m. May 11 and was delivered at Oakland, Cal., before 10 o'clock on that same morning.

Justice is something the world seldom agrees on. But Socrates said that, long ago.

GIANT COLORADO RIVER BRIDGE SPANS CANYON

Many an Indian brave and squaw rubbed their eyes in wonderment to see the giant Colorado Canyon spanned by a bridge at Lees Ferry, Colo. Their forefathers had fought against the stream many times trying to cross in the treacherous eddies. Now they ride quietly over the top on this latest engineering triumph. This composite picture shows how the Lees Ferry bridge compares with the Los Angeles City Hall.

THERE it comes, hard city water. Dishes to be washed, and only hard city water to wash them in. You know what will happen, don't you? The soap will mix with the hard water, and form a dirty scummy ring around the edge of the dishpan. How can dishes really get clean in that water?

Melo will soften the hardest water and make it a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. No dirty ring, grease cut, dirt dissolved. Soap much more effective! Bring on your hard water! Then bring on Melo! Get a can of Melo today at your grocer's.

Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the club, is authority for this story about the climber. A visitor to the club headquarters watched the turtle intently for several minutes. The turtle was clinging motionlessly to the corner of the center piece.

The visitor, evidently coming to the conclusion that the turtle was only an ornament, finally remarked, "That thing looks natural enough to be real."

Hardly had he spoken when the turtle turned its head to gaze at the visitor.

Won't Ask Again

SAMPLES are the passion of many a person's life. Let him or her go near a store, or pass a sign marked "Sample given with each purchase", and they are rarin' to go.

Recently a "gang" of young people met at a regular soda fountain and in genial mood, asked for samples. They had cold creams, toothpastes, etc., that every store has in abundance.

Beamingly the owner went behind the counter and emerged with neat little sample packages of laxatives which he distributed with a generous hand.

And What Next?

FROM one meeting to the next, the "boy friend" isn't sure whether or not he'll be dating a fair lady or an Indian. Either type may be had now for the mere price of a box of powder and a tube of vanishing cream.

A "keen" way to get the proper "Indian" tint, girls, is to get a rich, chocolate shade of sun-tan powder and without applying creams of any kind, spread it over the face.

neck and arms, and if you're going barelegged, of course, the legs.

Then smooth on the vanishing cream. The powder darkens, just to the proper shade, and best of all, it sticks for a long, long time. It has been known to stay on as long as 18 hours in this way—if you don't wash.

Calcutta Called Most Modern City in India

BOMBAY—Calcutta is the most Americanized city in India, in the opinion of Maurice Dekobra, well-known French author, who is in India in search of local color for a new book. Dekobra spent many years in the United States as a newspaper correspondent.

The din of the Calcutta taxicabs and the worship of the rupee—rivaling the homage paid to the dollar in Wall Street—made Dekobra think of New York. Calcutta's taste for gambling, and the newly formed craze for the

"talkies", according to Dekobra, helped create the illusion he was in the United States instead of India.

Be glad of your double chin. After a while it will become stringy.

Being a fool with the fools is easy and pleasant enough if you are one.

Announce Wedding of Ashley Resident

ASHLEY, June 21—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Willie Martin, of Ashley, and Miss Lucille Williams, of Lima, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Williams, at 8 o'clock Saturday evening. The only persons present were the members of the bride's immediate family and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin, parents of the bridegroom.

Two Veterans Receive Increased Pensions

Two veterans of the Spanish American war now living in Marion and vicinity will receive increases in their pensions as a result of activity of Congressman Grant E. Mouser. The two veterans affected are Ralph Walke of Chesterville, and Clayton Taylor of Marion.

Walke's pension has been increased to $72 a month, the highest amount allowed veterans of this war. The increase was dated to become effective last May 2. Taylor, who was formerly drawing $15 a month, was given an increase of $10, effective from June, 1928, to last April. He was also awarded a further increase to $20 which was dated to become effective last April.

Ritzzy Rosalie

"DON'T don't go near the water." Rosalie didn't really feel like swimming today, and just wanted to wear the new beach cape she had purchased. The cape is made of a large scarf slit at one end to produce a boat neck and heels effect, and the colors are red, blue, yellow, black and white, combined in a modernistic effect for the upper portion and a circular design below. This same type of cape, in milder hues, of course, is used as an evening wrap. The material is silk crepe.

RICH AND CREAMY

the "makings" in the icebox

There's always some makings in the icebox—some odds and ends for a perfect salad, when combined with Ivanhoe—the richest, creamiest, smoothest, most healthful mayonnaise. For instance:

Russian Vegetable Salad. Mix lightly equal parts of beans, shredded green pepper, cabbage and minced celery. Add onion and serve with Ivanhoe Mayonnaise.
